

A young woman bit her lip.

She had a strong sense
of self-worth.

She had financial independence.

She had fantastic friends and family.

She had a life purpose
and a heart
full of love.

She did not have
a boyfriend.

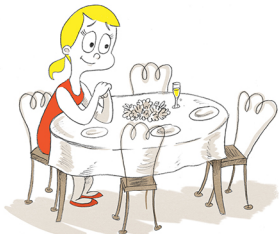

"Where is my boyfriend?"
she said.

She wanted to share her life with someone special.

But where was that someone?

So away she went.

"I will go and look for him," she said.
